MYSTERY DRIVER IS SOUGHT FOR KILLING OF VICTORIA WOMAN

Mrs. Catherine Galloway Fatally Injured When Struck by Automobile in Seattle Soon After Arrival With Husband on Holiday—Man Flees After Strange Accident

SEATTLE, Aug. 10 (P).—A man who "looked like a sailor" was the object of an intensive search tonight as police sought the driver of the automobile that fatally injured Mrs. Catherine Galloway, of Victoria.

The man who jumped from the car and fled after it had careened across a pavement and crushed the Victoria woman, was described by Miss Margaret Michaels, owner of the car and a passenger, as a stranger. She said she had met him at a hotel, that he had offered to park her car for her and that she had agreed. He apparently was not under the influence of liquor.

Miss Michaels was held under a coroner's bond of $5,000. A second passenger in the car, Miss Bertha Davis, of Seattle, was not held.

STORY CORROBORATED
The car owner said she thought the stranger was a sailor, but he was not in uniform. Eye-witnesses corroborated her story that the man fled after the car had careened across a pavement and crushed the Victoria woman, was described by Miss Margaret Michaels, owner of the car and a passenger, as a stranger.

Police took Miss Michaels to two ships, where the sailors were paraded before her. She was unable to identify anyone as the stranger.

Hospital attaches said Mrs. Galloway suffered back, arm, leg and collarbone fractures and severe shock.

Mrs. Galloway had just arrived in Seattle with her husband, James Galloway, a member of the Jubilee Hospital staff, to spend a holiday.

SERPENT COMES TO NEW SHORE

Nova Scotia Now Makes Claim to Near Relative Of Cadborosaurus

LIVERPOOL, N.S., Aug. 10 (P).—Nova Scotia has a sea serpent and hundreds of bathers from Summerville Beach near here, will vouch for it.

The "reptile fish," bearing striking resemblance to British Columbia's "Caddy" and "Ogopogo," and Scotland's Loch Ness monster, made its first appearance today in the ocean off Summerville Beach.

It was described as "something from ninety to 100 feet long, with the girth of a half-barrel and a small head carried high above the water."

GRACEFUL CARRIAGE

Witnesses, including a number of prominent Liverpool businessmen, said the serpent traveled through the water with an undulating motion. It bobbed up and down and occasionally showed several large vertebrae. Its wake was like that of a motor boat.

When the creature was first sighted, Alben Roy and a party of men gave chase in a two-hundred-foot motor boat. They tried to head it toward shore, but the canny beast dived beneath the boat and reappeared only after it was hundreds of yards away.

At one time it headed directly across the bow of a large steam yacht, owned by Dr. J. L. Brinkley, of Del Rio, Texas. Finally, after playfully leading the hunters a merry chase across the water, it fired off a play and disappeared in deep water far off shore.

Thousand Patients Removed From Burning Asylum in Iowa

MOUNT PLEASANT, Ia., Aug. 11 (P).—Flames raced out of control early today through the six-story state hospital for the insane, but firemen believed that all of the 1,000 patients had been removed safely to the hospital grounds.

With little confusion the inmates were marched from the building between lanes formed by 5,000 spectators; trains were ordered from Burlington, about twenty-four miles distant, to take the patients to other insane institutions at Independence, Cherokee, Clarinda and Woodward.

CENTRAL FILMS WILL NOT MOVE

Arrangements Made for Rehabilitating Willows Building for Fall Fair

The proposal of upsetting the plans of the Central Films Limited, by forcing the removal of its equipment now in place in the Industrial Building on the exhibition grounds at the Willows, appears to be well in hand for adjustment.

If the plan adopted by the City Council at the meeting last evening is carried out, the Automobile Building, which has not been in use for some years, will be overhauled and made into an industrial building for the coming fall, leaving the Central Films, Limited, free from the necessity of removing their equipment.

The City Council voted to set aside $1,000 for the purpose of putting a new floor in the Automobile Building and the putting of a new roof on it and the repairing of the structure so that it could be used for the purpose of an industrial display.

Says Millions of Jews Terrorized

GENEVA, Aug. 11 (CP-Palor Agency).—The Polish delegation to the World Jewish Congress charged today that Poland's 3,500,000 Jews were being terrorized and made paupers.

Commenting on recent proposals made by the Polish Foreign Ministry suggesting Jewish emigration from Poland, the document said that "Jews will not permit themselves to be terrorized or sunk into demoralization."

SEVILLE, Spain, Aug. 11 (P).—Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, Southern Spanish rebel commander, declared tonight the insurgent leader at Granada had reported the famous old Alhambra had been bombed by government artillery. JOHN IRVING IN LAST PORT

Pioneer Steamship Man of Province Dies After Long Colorful Career

VANCOUVER, Aug. 10 (P).—Captain John Irving, pioneer British Columbia navigator, one time member of the Legislature and owner and operator of the first steamship service between Victoria and the Mainland, which later became a part of the present-day Canadian Pacific British Columbia Coastal Service, died here tonight. He had been ill for more than a month.

BORN AT SEA
Captain Irving was born on the Oregon coast on October 24, 1854, aboard the sailing ship Robert D. Carter, operated between San Francisco and Portland, Oregon, by his father, Captain William Irving.

Captain William Irving moved from Portland to New Westminster in 1882 and later to Victoria, where John attended school until he joined, as an ordinary seaman, his father's steamer Reliance, the first such vessel to make the trip from New Westminster to Yale.

When he was twenty, John Irving was placed in command of the Ss. Onward, one of his father's line. At the death of his father he took over operation of the Irving Pioneer Line and added many new vessels.

FLEETS COMBINE
In 1877, Captain Irving bought the steamer Wilson G. Grant to run in opposition to the old Princess Louise of the Hudson Bay Company. Five years later the Irving Pioneer Line and the Hudson Bay Company fleet joined to form the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company, capitalized at $500,000, with Captain Irving as manager and commodore.

In 1901 the company was transferred to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. While still heading the coastal fleet, Captain Irving organized the Columbia & Kootenay Steam Navigation Company in 1890, purchasing

There are three Communists in the running, one Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate, one representative of the Labor party and one candidate who describes himself as "people's" candidate.

United Westons Win Second Match From Westminster Royals

Winnipeg Footballers Even Up Dominion Cup Series by 2-1 Victory—Casey Coulter Scores The Lone Goal for the Losers

VANCOUVER, Aug. 10 (P).—United Westons, of Winnipeg, defeated Westminster Royals, 2-1, here tonight in the second game of the Dominion soccer championship final and made a third and deciding game necessary Wednesday night. Royals won the opener Saturday afternoon, 6-1.

A fitting team that never let up, the swift doped pace Westons carried off the final whistle when the winning goal went sailing from the boot of Cliff Dickson.

Allan Holbert, Weston inside forward, was the first to score, with a 1-1 at half-time. The teams were tied at 1-1 at half-time.

FOUR KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Imperial Airways Liner Strikes and Sets Fire to House Near Croydon Airfield

LONDON, Aug. 10 (P).—Four aviators were killed early today when the Imperial Airways liner Vickers crashed into the side of a house and went up in a roar of flames.

The twin-engine biplane, engaged in an experimental night freight service, struck a house at Wallington, about five miles from Croydon Airfield, from which the plane took off.

This house and one adjoining it caught fire from the blazing wreckage.

Action Delayed on Timber Deal Until Solicitor Returns

Sooke Lake Watershed Fully Discussed at City Council Meeting When Varied Opinions as to Rights Are Quoted

THE City Council, at its meeting last evening, decided to postpone definite action with regard to the letting of any contract for the cutting of timber on the Sooke watershed until H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, returns from his vacation in about two weeks' time, so that his opinion in the matter of the legality of the awarding of such a contract might be obtained. This decision was reached after the council members had digested as far as possible the many opinions of a legal character that were submitted to them from the report of the water board.

A motion was first submitted by Alderman P. R. Brown and Alderman Stanley Okell that the opinion of the solicitors, Elliott, Maclean & Shandley, giving an opinion supporting the right to make a deal.

The matter was discussed in a very full manner by members of the council. Alderman Andrew McGavin, chairman of the committee, pointing out that, while at first he had not been in favor of allowing logging, he had changed his mind when the situation was gone into fully and he found just what selective logging meant. He said there was to be no depletion of the timber. Only timber that was approved by the water commissioner for cutting was to be taken.

Alderman McGavin favored having the whole of the information that had been placed before the committee. He was opposed to some of the criticisms that were being offered. In some instances these were from men who were not citizens of the country, he said.

INVITE COUNCIL TO RECEPTION

From the Department of the Provincial Secretary of the Province, members of the City Council were last evening informed by letter with regard to the arrangements for the formal reception to their Excellencies Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir at the Parliament Buildings on Saturday. Half court mourning will be observed, and in keeping with this, gentlemen are requested to wear black ties. Ladies are asked to wear frocks of subdued colors.

Plans call for the presentation of Mayor Leeming and Mrs. Leeming along with the wives and their wives in the Speaker's Room at the Parliament Buildings at 4 o'clock. Following the official introduction, at which Premier T. D. Pattullo and his ministers will be present, the party will proceed to the main chamber, where they will be grouped on the left of the Speaker's chair. Aldermen and their wives and representatives of public bodies will be invited to attend the reception.

FIRES TAKE HEAVY TOLL

HEAVY FOG CHECKS FIRE
A heavy fog checked a serious grass and brush fire near San Jose, Cal., and in Wyoming 2,000 weary foresters reported they had halted the advance of a fire that raged across 5,000 acres of jack pine forest to menace the town of Moose.

But in Northern Minnesota, where the flames wrought the greatest damage in twenty-five years, residents of two small communities were warned to be ready to flee their homes as the flames advanced steadily against the efforts of 1,500 men.

FIREFIGHTERS MOBILIZED
Prospects of cool weather brought some hope to weary foresters, but 3,500 workers were mobilized, ready to join the flame fight on a moment's notice.

Six hundred men battled a flame which spread from a post box to engulf 1,500 acres of second-grade timber along the Canadian boundary of Idaho. Wisconsin officials estimated 150 separate fires were burning in that state.

ESQUIMALT LAND IS SOLD BY YARD

Land is sold by the yard in Esquimalt. A property holder on Grenville Avenue purchased three feet of a neighboring lot from the Esquimalt Municipal Council some time ago, and last night purchased another five yards. He purchased last night the property by the municipal building by-laws.

SOCIALISTS STUDY MOVE

Formation of Independent Socialist Party to Be Considered in B.C.

Whether or not an independent Socialist party will be formed in British Columbia as one result of the recent split in the C.C.F. will be seriously discussed this week in Vancouver, according to some Victorians yesterday who said they were not satisfied with the turn of political events following the Vancouver convention of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation. Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., might be asked to head such a party, it was indicated.

Interviewed at his home over the week-end, Mr. Connell declined to make any comment on the report, or to indicate what his immediate plans would be. It is otherwise understood, however, that he has been approached, and may attend a Mainland meeting called for early this week, where the proposal is to be considered.

EFFECT WIDESPREAD
The break-up in the ranks of the C.C.F. is now known, with much indication, might control the majority of socialist opinion in the British Columbia Legislature, though not a majority of any one group of the official Opposition.

Until the Legislature meets, the official status of members holding C.C.F. seats in the House will not be straightened out, though Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., R. B. Swails, M.P.P., and Jack Price, M.P.P., are reported as standing together outside the official ranks of the C.C.F. Whether Ernest Bakewell, outspoken member for Mackenzie, would align himself with this group, or remain with the Provincial executive of the party, was not known here.

COUNT ON SUPPORT
Of wider influence to political fortunes than the status of seven Socialist members in the Legislature, is the latest C.C.F. membership of 6,000 in British Columbia, the stand that may be taken by approximately 91,000 Provincial voters who supported C.C.F. candidates at the last Provincial general election. Proponents of the independent Socialist party move assert they are counting on support from the larger group, though admitting immediate lack of organization facilities.

Meetings today and tomorrow in Vancouver are expected to settle the prospect or otherwise of formation of an independent Socialist party in British Columbia at an early date.

Comets and Meteors—Natural Phenomena Of Defined Habits

James Duff Describes Orbits and Constitution of Nebulous Heavenly Bodies—Perseids Due Tonight, He Announces, at Victoria College

ARRANGED to coincide with the annual return of the Perseids, due to begin tonight and with the interest still taken in the much-discussed Peltier's comet, the address on "Comets and Shooting Stars," given by James Duff before the Victoria centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada last night, attracted another big audience to Victoria College.

Until comparatively recent times, and even yet among the uneducated, the advent of comets caused superstitious fears among mankind.

MOVE IN ELLIPSES

Newton in the seventeenth century had described the motions of the heavenly bodies as ellipses. All the planets moved in elliptical orbits and comets in elongated ellipses. This was in part explained in the statement that when comets approached the sun they moved with accelerated speed, but as they moved in their orbits away from the sun the speed gradually decreased.

Peltier's comet, which a few days ago came within 16,000,000 miles of the earth, but was now rapidly moving away, moved in an orbit of parabolic curve. "Wandering" comets, attracted by our sun, its course could not be estimated. Some comets had a still wider curve, describing, in their orbits, hyperbolas.

HISTORIC COMETS

Before leaving the subject, Mr. Duff showed about twenty slides of comets. Some dated back many centuries, one pictured in a tapestry of 1066, being identified as Halley's comet.

The closing part of the talk was devoted to meteors. It was only at the beginning of the nineteenth century that science established that meteors "fell from the sky." The interesting point was brought out by Mr. Duff that the majority of meteorites were no larger than grains of wheat, but so highly incandescent owing to the velocity with which they struck our atmosphere, that they appeared as highly brilliant objects.

PERSEIDS TONIGHT
Reminder was made of the shower of meteors known as the Perseids

due to begin tonight and to continue for three or four nights. These Perseids followed a definite orbit, and annually at this time the path of their orbit intersects that of the earth.

Pictures were shown of the famous three-quarter-mile-wide crater in Arizona, supposed to have been caused by a meteor striking the earth.

The next of the Summer study group series of the Astronomical Society will take place next Monday evening when W. R. Hobday will speak on "Solar and Lunar Eclipses."

Commander Tingey, president of the local society, presided at last night's meeting.

TELEPHONE in the KITCHEN Saves many steps

THAT stretch from the kitchen to the front hall can be a long, wearisome road if it has to be travelled many times a day. Tired women realize this when, again and again, they have to rush from the kitchen to the front hall to answer the only telephone in the house.

The solution, of course, is to have an extension telephone in the kitchen.

Celto-Saxon Union Offers Security of World-Peace Ideal

Rev. E. J. Springett, Eminent Apostle of British-Israel, Gives "Message of Prophecy" to Large Audience at Empire Theatre Here

"THE endeavor to bolster up the League of Nations by remodelling the organization must inevitably prove just as futile as have the efforts of the League to preserve world peace. The League of Nations which could, and which inevitably will have to ensure world-peace, is the League of Celto-Saxon peoples described in Genesis 35, verse 11, as 'The Nations and the Company of Nations,'" maintains Rev. E. J. Springett, eminent protagonist of the British-Israel doctrine, who is a visitor in the city this week.

Dr. Springett addressed a capacity audience at the Empire Theatre last evening, following up his "Message of Prophecy in This Time of Chaos" which he began the previous evening from a Victoria pulpit. In this "message" he placed emphasis on the general state of bewilderment, perplexity and fear so prevalent in the minds of the majority of people at the present time, before outlining the principles of the "Law," which must inevitably be applied to the solution of the world problem.

TENSITY EVERYWHERE

Everywhere, he said, there was a peculiar tension in the minds of men. No man felt secure as to the future, everyone felt that change was inevitable in the management of affairs. "This was evidenced by the experiments being tried out in the Old World under the auspices of 'Communism' and 'Fascism,' on the one hand, and, on the other, the various attempts in the New World to promote 'new deals'."

Current events were an indication of the progressive development and revelation of a Divine purpose, just as they were also an indication that much of the world's present problem was caused by the idea that man was self-sufficient and all-sufficient, that man could get out of the morass in which he found himself floundering by the simple process of pulling on his own boot-strap.

"This is not the way. We must return to Divine purpose and plan."

In this connection, he recalled the recent approaches being made by Finland and Denmark to Britain, and the recent speech of Ambassador Bingham in which he had declared that the peoples of the British Commonwealth and of the United States were alike, in that they were peace-loving, had kindred aspirations and ideals, and although hating war were nevertheless prepared to fight in defence of right, and that in the event of a world struggle, which would menace the safety of these islands, Britain and the United States would be found side by side.

The chairman was E. W. Abraham, president of Victoria Centre of British-Israel.

NATIONS' ALIGNMENT

In an interview, Dr. Springett said that recent events in connection with the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, and also, possibly, in connection with present-day events in Spain, were an indication of the alignment of the nations of the world in readiness for "an approaching world crisis" named in Revelations as "the battle of the Great Day of God Almighty." "There is no doubt," he said, "that the Italo-Ethiopian incident was the prelude of an endeavor to gain control in the Middle East, and that the venue of the next great war is plainly indicated as being in that general vicinity."

Many of the great powers desired possession of the country known as the Holy Land because of its strategic importance, particularly at the present time. Any power in occupation of Palestine would be "sitting astride" the centre of world communications between the Eastern and Western hemispheres and would thus form a great menace to the British Commonwealth.

The idea so actively propagated by the Zionist organization, that Palestine is to become the centre for the setting-up of a purely Jewish nation and kingdom is contrary to the truth which declares that the land should belong in perpetuity to the seed of Abraham as a whole, which is today the Celto-Saxon people," the distinguished apostle of British-Israel said.

Minute Interviews

Fishing waters of Vancouver Island are probably the best known on the entire Pacific Coast, due to the efforts of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, said William Francis Isaacs, chairman of the Medford, Ore., Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, before leaving for Qualicum and Comox, where he will put his skill against Island coho, steelhead, cutthroat and rainbow trout.

Mr. Isaacs is greatly impressed with the methods of the local Publicity Bureau.

At Qualicum Beach, Mr. Isaacs will invite General Noel Money to go to Medford when the season is over, to fish in the Rogue River. This river is one of General Money's favorite streams and he usually fishes it once a year.

"Yes, I am back again to have my annual view of Victoria's many beauty spots. And I have brought a tour party with me," announced Dr. C. H. Tozier, Boston, as he walked into the Empress Hotel yesterday. Dr. Tozier is well known here as one of the best Victoria boosters in the Eastern States. For several years Dr. Tozier has been coming to Vancouver Island to take colored pictures, which he uses on extensive lecturing tours every winter. He now operates the Dr. Tozier Pacific Coast Tour.

the new Government, which probably will be distinctly non-Fascist.

Boris' decision to end the Fascist regime has been received with acclamation. Always a popular monarch, who liked to travel incognito throughout the countryside, he is cheered wildly whenever he appears, outside the palace.

SETTLING TAXI STRIKE

A few weeks ago, he revealed his democratic instincts when he personally intervened to settle a taxi-drivers' strike which had lasted almost a month in Sofia. His intervention was on behalf of the taxi-men. The King declared they were right in their grievances about the high price of gasoline. Prices were reduced immediately. The King's reward was to see a long line of taxicabs parade before the royal palace bearing all manner of friendly, homely greetings to the monarch.

Another instance of the human side of the King's personality has come to light. Riding in his automobile along a country road, he came upon a boy trudging to the capital. Borge asked the lad to step in and as they drove to Sofia the youth, Ivan Ivantcheff from the village of Pantcherevo, explained that his parents were too poor to continue his education. He consequently was unable to go to Sofia to try to gain entrance as a burarscholar in one of the schools.

IS KING'S PROTEGE

Today Ivan Ivantcheff is a pupil at one of the best schools in Sofia. King Boris is paying his expenses.

Similar stories—and they are true—are told of the King's numerous charitable acts when he came upon hard-luck stories in his travels among his hard-working country people.

Such acts explain why the Bulgarians always put fervor in their voices when they cry, "God Save the King!"

Now that he has moved to sweep away "racism and military rule," they hail him more enthusiastically than ever.

WHEN TO MAKE A MINIMUM OVERCALL

A minimum overcall (a bid of exactly as many tricks as you need to overcall your opponent's bid) shows three things:

1. Enough winners under the rule

2. A five-card biddable suit. At the range of one a strong four-card suit may occasionally be bid. When vulnerable, an overall of two or three usually requires a rebiddable suit.

Thus it will be seen that at the range of one you must have four winners if not vulnerable and five winners if vulnerable; at the range of two, five winners if not vulnerable and six if vulnerable, etc.

Squeeze plays are fairly common, and in most cases the player who is inexorably squeezed deserves sympathy rather than censure. But what can one say of a declarer who squeezes himself more thoroughly and effectively than could be done by his bitterest enemy?

When he takes an affair in hand he never fails to carry it through. In this case there is a special need of initiative and energy such as he possesses in so high a degree.

"Four years have elapsed since the British Government promised the British lines support in the face of the competition of American vessels," it continued. "These latter have received large subsidies and also have as an aid the coastal observation, which closes to British liners the trade between such points as the United States and Honolulu.

"The British Government ought, therefore, to grant a very handsome subsidy to the British lines to equalize the position. It is now or never if the British lines are to be saved, as their reserve funds are exhausted.

Two Officers Die
When Plane Falls
Off Sussex Coast

PAGHAM, England, Aug. 10

(P)—Lieut.-Colonel Arthur Pawcus, fifty, holder of a brilliant war record was killed today when a Royal Air Force auxiliary plane crashed in the sea off the Sussex Coast.

Pilot Officer Michael Richard Montague was also killed.

Rescuers found the plane in four feet of water.

Lieut.-Colonel Pawcus was a resident of British East Africa. He served in the Marakwet Patrol in that territory in 1911.

In the Great War he was mentioned in dispatches three times, and was awarded the Distinguished Service Order, the Military Cross, and made a Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor.

CAPT. HOSKEN
PASSES AWAYCommander of Empress of Canada Dies on Mainland
While on Shore Leave

VANCOUVER, Aug. 10 (P)—Captain A. J. Hosken, commander of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada, died here today while on shore leave. He was sixty-one years old.

Death came after a short illness, ending the thirty-two-year service of the veteran navigator. He had been forced to remain ashore on his last leave and was not in command of the Empress of Canada when the vessel left here for the Orient on his last trip.

Captain Hosken had a distinguished record with the steamship company.

In 1923 he was awarded the Médaille d'Honneur de Sauvageur de la France for his work in saving the French steamer Hsin Tien off the China coast. At that time Captain Hosken was commander of the Montague. While commanding the Empress of Canada in 1931, three Chinese sailors and their captain were rescued from a water-logged junk between Hongkong and the Lema Islands.

Captain Hosken joined the Canadian Pacific steamship service in 1904 and began his service on the Montague in the Atlantic. He was formerly commander of the Empress of Russia, and was a native of England.

The Great Distinction between Electrolysis and all other treatments for the removal of superfluous hair is that it is absolutely sure, and permanently destroys the hair instead of temporarily removing it from the surface, and the pain is just the ordinary stinging sensation peculiar to all electrical treatments, so truly there is nothing to be afraid of—nor even the cost! Interesting Wedding Is Celebrated at Nanaimo

Miss Marjorie Eileen Gibbons and Dr. George Raymond Barrett Married at St. Paul's Anglican Church—Reception at Golf Club

NANAIMO, Aug. 10. — With the altar and chancel banked with sweet peas, asters and clustered petunias, in pastel shades, relieved with touches of asparagus fern, and before a capacity crowd of invited guests and spectators, a wedding of wide interest on Vancouver Island, other parts of British Columbia and Eastern Canada was solemnized in St. Paul's Anglican Church at 8:30 o'clock this evening when Marjorie Eileen Gibbons, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gibbons, numbered among well-known pioneers of this district, became the bride of Dr. George Raymond Barrett, of Pioneer, B.C., formerly of Vancouver and Winnipeg, Rev. Canon Hitchcock officiated.

LOVELY BRIDE

The bride, who is a native daughter of Nanaimo and who was confirmed by the late Bishop Schofield in the church in which she made her marriage vows, was given away by her father. She wore an exclusively designed gown of Charmeuse satin, that featured pleated bishop sleeves, which formed a yoke at the shoulder and fell in fullness to the elbow. Long, tight-fitting cuffs were trimmed with tiny buttons of satin and two ornaments of brilliant-cut, accented the oval neckline. A high waist-line in princess effect was pointed at the front and the skirt fitted within ten inches of the hemline graduated at the back to a long broad train. Satin buttons marked the centre back of the bodice. Silver slippers completed her attire.

Her bridal veil, pleated at the back, dipped in a large point to the end of her train. It was made of the finest plain Brussels net, which, combined effectively with clouds of silk tulle, was used as a base. She also wore a scalloped halo of embroidered seed pearls and crystal beads. Attached to her veil on either side were tiny orange blossoms, suggesting a "Juliet" effect. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of Killarney roses, lilies of the valley and gardenias.

Her matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Ronald Nicholson, of Marshville, Oregon, wearing a striking gown of white moire tulle in form-fitting design with gored fullness at the hemline. A wide white panne velvet girdle was finished at the back with large rosettes of velvet. She wore a picture hat of white lace banded with white silk panne velvet and trimmed with rosettes of velvet and a sheaf of mauve and pink gladioli composed her bouquet.

TWO BRIDESMAIDS

Miss Isabel Good and Miss Dora Thomson, the bridesmaids, similarly gowned, wore white lace over satin. The gowns, cut in graceful fitting lines, had high necklines and two roses as ornaments. Gored skirts swept, to rippling trains and cocktail jackets were effectively modeled. Miss Good wore a large hat of white leaf straw trimmed with corded silk ribbon, and Miss Thomson's hat was a Gainsborough model straw being trimmed with silk velvet. Both carried lovely shower bouquets of pink carnations and pink and cream sweet peas.

Little Marjorie Sloan, cousin of the bride, was a flower girl, wearing a French frock of point d'esprit net, "All Joy Be Thine," and Mr. H. E. Palmer played the wedding music.

Rev. Edward Barrett, of Merritt, B.C., was best man.

While the register was being signed, Miss Helen Sloan, of Vancouver, cousin of the bride, sang "All Joy Be Thine," and Mr. H. E. Palmer played the wedding music.

RECEPTION AT CLUB

A reception followed the ceremony at the Golf and Country Club, where Mrs. Gibbons, mother of the bride, received, wearing a striking creation of applied silk Brussels net, in powder blue. Phyllis of acordion playing were used for trimmings on the sleeves and Peter Pan collar, and the cocktail jacket had short sleeves, while the skirt had a slight train. She also wore a French hat of cream. Leshorn pressed straw, with a turned-back brim trimmed with a large bow of turquoise blue velvet which banded the crown and roses of pink and blue tied the wide brim in front. She also wore

New Fashions Take A Masculine Trend

PARIS, Aug. 10 (AP). — Masculine fashions contrasted feminine frivolities in Fall and Winter style showings by Paris dressmakers during the last ten days.

Swallowtail jackets, coachmen's coats and knickered tweed offset the broad "boudoir" petticoats, baggy bodies and old-fashioned bell skirts five yards wide.

The directoire period inspired long-tailed cutaway jackets and "trouser" coats. This time rounders headed double-breasted closings and outlined flared skirts from the waist down.

Seen in tall steeple style hats and knee breeches under split evening skirts and satin trousers under lace.

Feminine repercussions were seen in windblown ruffled back flares of coats, jackets, dresses and dress skirts slit the full length to show petticoats. Day silhouettes stressed a flare at hip, knee or hem.

Interesting Wedding Is Celebrated

SIDNEY, Aug. 10. — A pretty wedding took place at the Sidney Gospel Hall on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, when Ivy May, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hill, of Sidney, became the bride of Mr. Henry McGill Rankin, of Courtenay, son of Mrs. A. Rankin and the late Mr. Rankin. The groom is well known in the Sidney district, where he lived for a number of years with his parents.

The Sidney Gospel Hall was decorated for the occasion with flowers in pastel shades and greenery. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Stewart Hill and Mr. Gordon Bowcott.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the hall to the strains of "The Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin." She made a pretty picture in her gown on ivory satin with yoke of lace. The sleeves were full and gathered at the elbow and were fitted to the wrist. Her veil was of embroidered tulle being held to the head with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of flame gladioli and fern.

THE ATTENDANTS

The bride's sister, Mrs. Gordon Bowcott, was matron of honor and wore a dress of apple green point d'esprit, fashioned with rows of frills from the waist to the floor and a capelet of frills. She wore a white picture hat and carried pale yellow gladioli.

Miss Winnie Thornley and Miss Agnes Craig were charming bridesmaids, the former in a mauve net ankle-length dress with frilled skirt and capelet, carried pale pink gladioli and wore a flower basket in her hair, and the latter wore a pale yellow net dress fashioned with frilled skirt and capelet, and carried mauve gladioli and wore a flower basket.

Mr. H. L. Hopkins, of Victoria, performed the marriage ceremony. The groom was supported by Mr. David Stewart. During the signing of the register Miss Ora Jealous sang "O Perfect Love." The newly-married couple left the hall to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The largely attended wedding reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Morrey, Third Street. The reception rooms were decorated with flowers and foliage. The bride and groom stood beneath a pastel floral arch to receive the congratulations of their many friends.

GUESTS RECEIVED

They were assisted in receiving by Mrs. R. G. Hill, in a brown silk crepe suit with matching accessories. She wore a corsage bouquet of yellow roses and lily of the valley. Mrs. Rankin also assisted in receiving and wore a black silk suit with white accessories and a corsage bouquet of white gardenias.

The four-tier wedding cake centered a table laid with a cut glass cloth and decorated with pink and mauve streamers and silver vases of pink and mauve sweet peas. Mrs. John Matthews and Mrs. G. Stewart presided at the urns. Assisting in serving were Misses Lillian Woods, Gladys Morrey, Margaret Morrey, Mary Stewart, Grace McKerracher, Mary Taylor, Bella Craig and Helen Keyworth. Every liquor seller and beer licensee in Alberta has been ordered by the Government he must refuse to accept or negotiate any "cheque or time cheque or other evidence of indebtedness given in payment of wages."

COVERED BY ORDER
Certificates, first issue of which was released last Wednesday, were covered by the order, thus prohibiting beer parlors from taking them, but it was reported some hotels were evading the order by cashing certificates at the office.

Workers in Beverly, Edmonton suburb, who received scrip as wages for July work, donated $22 in certificates to the Canadian League Against War and Fascism. It was stated by John Egger, league treasurer. All but $4 was cashed by league officials who found no difficulty selling the certificates as souvenirs.

REBELS AT BADAJOZ
Burgos rebel headquarters announced the southern troops of General Francisco Franco had reached the outskirts of Badajoz, near the Portuguese border, and intended to attack that city before resuming the northward march.

Great Britain forwarded a protest against the shelling of an English yacht in which the owner, Captain Rupert Savile, was killed and his American wife wounded. Mrs. Savile is the former Elsie Drake, of Norwich, Conn. The incident occurred during a rebel naval bombardment of Gijon.

ON SHORT RATIONS
SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 10.—Government defenders of San Sebastian by the sea fought rebels today with hunger and thirst and privation making their battle more grim.

Rebel shells smashed into the town, once the gathering place of the wealthy who sought peace and quiet.

Once the rebels reach a path from their northern provinces through the Government-held strip along the Bay Biscay, then supplies and munitions can be taken to the Fascist troops with greater ease.

LONG BREAD LINES
There were long bread lines in San Sebastian, and there also were water and milk lines in which citizens stood for their daily portion.

Bread was distributed on a ration system free of charge. The milk supply was given only for babies. (A dispatch from Madrid said the Loyalists had taken an ammunition factory in Oviedo today after bombing it yesterday from airplanes.)

Little Stories for Bedtime
Joy Among the Corn-Stalks
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The happiest place in all the world—
You know it; of course you do!
It's the place called "home"—your very own.
Now haven't I told you true?

Of course I have. There isn't any place like it for pure joy and happiness. There's no place more home-like than your own, but right down deep in your heart you know perfectly well that not even in the finest of them is there so much happiness as in your own dear home—not for you, anyway. Now, the home of Danny Meadows Mouse wasn't much to look at. It was just a little round house of kinking and grass in the middle of a pile of old cornstalks on the edge of Farmer Brown's cornfield, but to little Mite, the lost baby of Danny Meadows Mouse, it was the most beautiful place in all the Great World.

As he scrambled down among the cornstalks, the little path that led to the little round doorway, he called at the top of his funny little, squeaky voice: "Here I am! Here I am! I've come home!"

Of course, his brother and two sisters, Teeny, Weeny and Midget, and crowded around him and rubbed noses with him, which is the Meadow Mouse way of kissing, and told him how glad they were to see him, and asked him if he really had seen the Great World, and what it was like, and talking at once and making such a squawking as that pile of cornstalks never had known before.

Little Mite wondered why his father and mother didn't come out to greet him, and as soon as he got a chance he asked where they were. "They are out hunting for you," replied Teeny. "They've been out every day since you went away, and now all they can do is to find you and welcome you home. You won't run away again, will you Mite?"

"Never," declared Mite. "Never so long as I live!" And he really meant it.

"Won't this be the best surprise for father and mother that ever was?" cried Midget, dancing about excitedly. "You've made the house safe, and we'll play outside. Then when they go in they'll find you there. Oh, won't it be fun?"

So when they thought it was about time for Danny and Nanny Meadows Mouse to return, Mite went inside. He wondered what they would say to him and what they would do to punish him, for he knew that he deserved to be punished. You see, if he hadn't discovered in the first place he wouldn't have been lost. But he was so glad to be home again that he didn't Possible further outlet for prospective certificates appeared today when Commissioner D. Mitchell, of Edmonton, declared "it would appear likely" certificates would be accepted in payment of utility accounts up to a certain maximum.

Every liquor seller and beer licensee in Alberta has been ordered by the Government he must refuse to accept or negotiate any "cheque or time cheque or other evidence of indebtedness given in payment of wages."

COVERED BY ORDER
Certificates, first issue of which was released last Wednesday, were covered by the order, thus prohibiting beer parlors from taking them, but it was reported some hotels were evading the order by cashing certificates at the office.

Workers in Beverly, Edmonton suburb, who received scrip as wages for July work, donated $22 in certificates to the Canadian League Against War and Fascism. It was stated by John Egger, league treasurer. All but $4 was cashed by league officials who found no difficulty selling the certificates as souvenirs.

Clearing houses are being established to handle situations where wholesalers refuse to take certificates from retailers, Mr. Aberhart announced.

cast, and there were indications the opposition, Northern Loyalists, were in danger of defeat momentarily. Loyalists continued to engage rebels in the Guadarrama Mountains.

REBELS AT BADAJOZ
Burgos rebel headquarters announced the southern troops of General Francisco Franco had reached the outskirts of Badajoz, near the Portuguese border, and intended to attack that city before resuming the northward march.

Great Britain forwarded a protest against the shelling of an English yacht in which the owner, Captain Rupert Savile, was killed and his American wife wounded. Mrs. Savile is the former Elsie Drake, of Norwich, Conn. The incident occurred during a rebel naval bombardment of Gijon.

ON SHORT RATIONS
SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 10.—Government defenders of San Sebastian by the sea fought rebels today with hunger and thirst and privation making their battle more grim.

Rebel shells smashed into the town, once the gathering place of the wealthy who sought peace and quiet.

Once the rebels reach a path from their northern provinces through the Government-held strip along the Bay Biscay, then supplies and munitions can be taken to the Fascist troops with greater ease.

LONG BREAD LINES
There were long bread lines in San Sebastian, and there also were water and milk lines in which citizens stood for their daily portion.

Bread was distributed on a ration system free of charge. The milk supply was given only for babies. (A dispatch from Madrid said the Loyalists had taken an ammunition factory in Oviedo today after bombing it yesterday from airplanes.)

Little Stories for Bedtime
Joy Among the Corn-Stalks
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The happiest place in all the world—
You know it; of course you do!
It's the place called "home"—your very own.
Now haven't I told you true?

Of course I have. There isn't any place like it for pure joy and happiness. There's no place more home-like than your own, but right down deep in your heart you know perfectly well that not even in the finest of them is there so much happiness as in your own dear home—not for you, anyway. Now, the home of Danny Meadows Mouse wasn't much to look at. It was just a little round house of kinking and grass in the middle of a pile of old cornstalks on the edge of Farmer Brown's cornfield, but to little Mite, the lost baby of Danny Meadows Mouse, it was the most beautiful place in all the Great World.

As he scrambled down among the cornstalks, the little path that led to the little round doorway, he called at the top of his funny little, squeaky voice: "Here I am! Here I am! I've come home!"

Of course, his brother and two sisters, Teeny, Weeny and Midget, and crowded around him and rubbed noses with him, which is the Meadow Mouse way of kissing, and told him how glad they were to see him, and asked him if he really had seen the Great World, and what it was like, and talking at once and making such a squawking as that pile of cornstalks never had known before.

Little Mite wondered why his father and mother didn't come out to greet him, and as soon as he got a chance he asked where they were. "They are out hunting for you," replied Teeny. "They've been out every day since you went away, and now all they can do is to find you and welcome you home. You won't run away again, will you Mite?"

"Never," declared Mite. "Never so long as I live!" And he really meant it.

"Won't this be the best surprise for father and mother that ever was?" cried Midget, dancing about excitedly. "You've made the house safe, and we'll play outside. Then when they go in they'll find you there. Oh, won't it be fun?"

So when they thought it was about time for Danny and Nanny Meadows Mouse to return, Mite went inside. He wondered what they would say to him and what they would do to punish him, for he knew that he deserved to be punished. You see, if he hadn't discovered in the first place he wouldn't have been lost. But he was so glad to be home again that he didn't

CITY VITALLY INTERESTED
Mayor Leeming, in the course of his explanation, pointed out that the Central Films, Limited, had developed far beyond its expectations in the past ten months and the situation was one that meant that it was not wise to ask the organization to vacate the building where it was established. The whole situation was one in which the city was vitally interested.

right, opened the scoring in the first fifteen minutes of the game, when he took Harold Brooks' pass and boomed it into the left-hand corner of the net past Stan Stronze. Royals net custodian, Jack Coulter and Dave Turner combined for the equalizer.

The Royals' inside left broke up a Weston rush and carried the ball into Winnipeg territory. Just past the defence he crossed to Coulter, and the centre forward made no mistake with his drive. Johnny Reid, Weston goalie, had no chance to save as the drive whistled past him ten minutes before the half-time whistle.

Royals opened the second half with a series of rushes into Weston defence zone, and came close to taking the lead, but the brilliant goal-tending of Reid robbed them of at least three counters.

DECIDING TALLY
In the final five minutes of play, Brooks went down the left side of the field, tricked George Anderson, right fullback, then passed to Cy Johnston, centre forward Johnston carried it in further a few yards, then slid in a goalmouth pass to Dickson, who scored the winning goal with his shot. The ball dropped down inside the goal line for what proved the winning counter.

Marigold
Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Fryatt, Snowdrop Avenue, entertained on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. W. M. (Billy) Allan, who is soon to return to the Peace River district, where he teaches school. Many were enjoyed and later light refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Elsie Fryatt. The invited guests included Rev. William and Mrs. Allan, Messrs. Neill, Rainer, Dorothy and Myra Hodgson, Eileen Newby, Helen and Joseph Ritz, Mona Humphries, Shirley Parnum, Messrs. John Campbell, Ian Humphries, Douglas Worth, Gordon Ritz, Jack Allan and Jack Ritz.

Miss McHaffie, of Hamilton, Ont., is visiting her uncle, Rev. W. P. McHaffie, Rowland Avenue.

Paul Axtell and David Rose, of Grange Road, left on Monday to attend the combined I.S.C.P. and Scripture Union Camp of Colonial Rice, at Maple Bay.

STICKING TO ORDERS
The police-sergeant looked at the newest recruit and shook his head. "You have been in the force for several months now and never once brought in a case," he said. The constable hung his head. "Now," went on the sergeant, "the Squire up at the Hall has just phoned to say that somebody is stealing apples from his orchard. Go up there tonight and watch for the thief."

After watching near the Hall for some time the constable saw a man slinking along with a sack on his back. He pounced on him, opened the sack, and emptied a quantity of silver on to the ground.

"Hm," he said, after surveying the spoils. "my mistake. You can thank your lucky stars it wasn't apples!"

CRIME PICTURE IS AT DOMINION

Edward Arnold and Peter Lorre
Feature in Unusual Murder Story by Dostoevsky

An event of some importance takes place at the Dominion Theatre today when Columbia's production of Dostoevsky's famous novel, "Crime and Punishment," goes on view here for the first time. Edward Arnold plays the starting role, that of the police inspector, Peter Lorre is seen as Raskolnikov, the murderer.

The immortal story concerns itself with the causes and effects of the crime. Raskolnikov, a student, having recently graduated from the university, a brilliant student with a penchant for analyzing the criminal mind, Raskolnikov finds himself and his high ideas buffeted about. He is racked, starved, his beloved sister is about to marry an obnoxious government official just so that he, Raskolnikov, and his mother will have money.

Believing that with his superior mentality, he can commit the perfect crime, he murders a stretched hag of a pawnbroker and robs her. The remainder of the film shows why he fails to escape the long arm of the law, in the guise of the relentless yet gentle police inspector.

Three generations of the celebrated dancing Caninos, the world renowned dancing family and formerly command entertainers to the King and Queen of Spain, appear in "Dancing Pirate," new Technicolor feature from Pioneer Pictures, now showing at the Atlas Theatre. They are Antonio, grandfather of the group and known as the "Original Canino," Eduardo, his son, Elia, the daughter of Eduardo, and Gabriel, son to Elia.

PLAZA Two ex-army flyers worked on the production of "Cello Zero," now at the Plaza Theatre, an air mail romance starring James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and June Travis. Walter Quinton came up from Mexico where he was employed by the Pacific Airways, to assist Paul Mantz, technical director. The other, H. J. Kane, was loaned by Western Air Express to play the part of a weather type operator, a role he plays in real life.

COLUMBIA The "Bitter Tea of General Yen," a Columbia picture, starring Barbara Stanwyck is now at the Columbia Theatre. It's a Frank Capra production of the novel by Grace Zaring Stone. Nils Asther

Japan and Holland Swimmers Display Form at Olympiad

Wipe Out Trio of Olympic Records as Canadian Aquatic Performers Fail Against Pick of World At Berlin—Dominion's Relay Team Qualifies in 800-Metre Event—Boxers Poor

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.
BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Taking up where the track stars left off, swimmers of Japan and Holland eclipsed three Olympic marks today, as a Canadian quartette reached the final of the men's 800-metre relay and the Dominion's best-known "merman" stroked successfully through his trial for the 400-metre free style championship.

The Canadian seemed to have an outside chance of placing in these events, but the "human fish" of Nippon were just about conceded both titles.

A Japanese relay team composed of Masanori Yuo, Shigeo Sugitara, Shoji Taguchi and Shigeo Yano, knifed through the main Olympic pool in 8:56.1, shattering 23 seconds off the Olympic standard.

The Canadian team, second to a French foursome in another heat, was caught in 9:40. Its members were Munroe Bourne, Montreal; Bob Pirie, Toronto; Bob Hamerton, Winnipeg; and Bob Hooper, Vancouver.

It was Pirie, a nineteen-year-old who holds most Canadian records, who had the power to stay in the running for the 400 free style medal. He was third in a heat that sparked with the performance of Japan's shumpet Uto, who lowered the record for the Games, 23 seconds, by sprinting the route in 4:03.5. The Frenchman, Jean Taria, was second, with Pirie crawling into the third and the last qualifying spot in 4:08.

CANADIANS ELIMINATED
Meantime, the sixteen-year-old Hooper, and Hamerton, long an aquatic power in his native Manitoba, were submerged in the backwash of other Japanese stars. The swimmer was fourth in a trial taken by Shozo Makino in 4:51.5; Hooper sixth as Hiroshi Negami won in 4:52.6.

The one swim trial decided—women's 100-metre free style—was captured in record-shattering style of Holland's Rita Mastenbroek, while her more famous compatriot and world record-holder, Willy Denouden, gave a disappointing performance and finished fourth.

Rita clipped nine-tenths second from the listed Olympic mark, winning in 1:05.9, with Janet Campbell, of Argentina, second, and Germany's Gisele Arendt third. The team which also splashed home under the record.

AMERICANS LOSE
The American stars, Olive McKean and Katherine Kawa, could not match the final twenty-metre sprint and finished sixth and seventh respectively. Marjorie Stone, of Toronto, and Phyllis Dewar, Vancouver, went out in the quarter final.

The first half of the low spring-board diving ended with the Americans, Dick Degener and Marshall Wade, in the first two spots.

George Athans, stylish fifteen-year-old who polished up his form by winning a wooden doll tumbling into the bathtub at his parents' Vancouver home, had to scratch from the low-board dive because of an infected ear. His coach was confident the boy would be well enough to compete in the high-board event later in the week.

BOXERS FAKE POORLY
BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Canada's Olympic boxing forces took a four-way trouncing today when two entrants were ordered home for failing to make the proper weight, and two others were defeated in their opening appearance in the two-ring Olympic Games' boxing circus.

Middleweight Irving Pease, of Toronto, and flyweight Mickey Hennessy, of Montreal, were the team-mates sent home. Maurice Camryee, Winnipeg welterweight, was outpointed by Chester Rutelick, of the United States, and Hervey Lavelles, Ottawa, dropped a bantamweight split decision to Frank Ortiz, of Mexico, in one of the closest battles of the opening card.

Chairman P. J. Mulquhenn, of the Canadian Olympic committee, announced Pease would probably be suspended by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for indifference in training. Officials of the boxing team said Pease made little or no effort to bring his weight down to fighting trim.

On the other hand officials said Hennessy, who failed by two pounds to make the flyweight limit, had tried hard to rid himself of the surplus weight and no official action would be taken against him. Hennessy's weight increased during the light training on board ship when meals were heavy.

Two weeks of rigorous work, including road running at Berlin, failed to chop-off the extra two pounds and bring him inside the limit.

CAMRYEE OUTBORED
Camryee, brightest hope of the team with Pease, met Rutelick in the first bout of the evening. Camryee was outboxed during the two first rounds, and a routing third round rally failed to earn him the win over his American opponent.

Lavelles held an edge over the faster Mexican until the third round, when the struggle was about even and observers stated the decision might have gone either way. Other Canadian boxers, including

Victory Over Leicestershire Increases Lead in County Cricket

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Derbyshire lengthened its lead over Nottinghamshire in the English county cricket championship today by defeating Leicestershire by nine wickets in a low-scoring contest.

Jesse Owens to Desert Amateur Athletic Ranks

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Jesse Owens, with the approval of Larry Snyder, his coach at Ohio State, announced today he would turn professional after completing a post-Olympic tour, provided sufficient financial inducements are forthcoming.

Already beset with offers, including a contract offering a ten weeks' personal appearance tour with a California orchestra, the winner of four Olympic gold medals frankly decided to cash in on his record to close his amateur career, despite the fact he has one more year's college eligibility.

The exhibition of marksmanship displayed by Miller was a continuation of his consistent shooting shown at Bisley last month. The twenty-one-year-old student drew plaudits of the Empire then by winning the Grand Aggregate. The possible gave the youth a perfect day of shooting.

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGES, SOUTH MARCH, Ont., Aug. 10.—Out-guessing a shifting wind, four snipers carded a possible century today for leadership in the Macdougall Match here today at the annual meeting of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association.

The quartette, Lieutenant Stephen Johnson, of Wayne, Alta.; Captain Jack Steele, of Guelph; Sergeant Frank Wallace, of Toronto, and Officer Cedric Duncan Miller, of Cambridge University, popped ten regulation shots at 500 yards and then moved to 200 and duplicated the effort. They will shoot off tomorrow at 500 yards to determine the holder of the Empire then by winning the Macdougall Challenge Trophy.

MANGRUM IS GOLF WINNER
Shoots 278, Ten Under Perfect Figures, to Take First Prize at Portland Meet

PORTLAND, Aug. 10.—Summer's golden golf trail through the West ended here today with a slender Pittsburgh professional, Ray Mangrum, who was also an ardent St. Paul, Vancouver Victoria and Seattle, a stretch winner of the $1,200 first prize in the $5,000 Oregon open tournament.

The leader in a par-shattering pace, which was so hot that the first eight money places went to professionals who shot consecutive rounds of par or better in the seventy-two-hole test Mangrum put on a nine-hole finish for a final score of 70-67-71-70—278, ten under perfect figures.

Zimmerman finishing in a tie for second and third places with Neil Christian, Yakima, who blazed home with a 69 divided $1,300 with Christian.

Zimmerman put together rounds of 71-69-71-69—279, while Christian collected 68-71-71-69—279. Fourth and fifth places and prize money of $400 each went to Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis, and Charles Sheppard, Cambridge, Ont., who tied at 280.

MANERO IN FORM
Tony Manero, United States open champion, gave a big gallery an idea of a title-holder's golf by topping off a steady 71-72-72 with a birdie-splinked 67, five under par, to tie with Byron Nelson, Ridgeview, 83, for seventh and eighth places and $250 each.

Bill Jeffries, Los Angeles, also finishing with a grand 67, got ninth place at 283 strokes and $190, while Maedonald Smith lined his purse with $170 by shooting 284 for tenth place.

The end of the Northwest tour found the youthful Nelson, Metropolitan open champion, the biggest money winner at $2,251 and Mac Smith in second place with $1,973.

HEADS QUALIFIERS WITH ROUND OF 76 AT COLWOOD LINKS

Victorian Finishes Four Strokes in Front of Large Contingent of Veterans From All Parts of the Northwest as Fourteenth Annual Meet Begins—Three Others Tied With 80's

TARTING off with a beautiful birdie three on the first hole and then going over par by the odd stroke on six of the remaining holes, J. V. Ruggles, one of Victoria's most popular golfers, stroked his way to the front of a field of 139 shotmakers to win the qualifying round honors in the fourteenth annual Seniors' Northwest Golf Association tournament yesterday at the Royal Colwood Club with a smartly played 76. He was six over par, mightily good golf for a veteran divot, and finished four strokes ahead of the trio deadlocked for the runner-up position. Ruggles was the only one of the big contingent of contenders from all parts of the Northwest to break into the seventy class and in doing so paced the field to the medal honors.

The qualifying round winner went over par at the second and third, then followed the card on the next six holes to reach the turn in 36, even fours, and just one over perfect figures. On the back stretch the Victorian started off with two bogies slipped over at the twelfth and thirteenth, parred the long and difficult fourteenth and then went over on his card at the sixteenth and he bumped into trouble at the seventeenth and took a six, but finished with another par for a back nine of 40.

Tied in the runner-up berth was Hon. John Hart, Victoria's defending titleholder, who breezed into a deadlock with R. E. Thatcher, Seattle, holder of the Washington state seniors' crown, and Dr. Otis B. Wright, Portland, with cards of 80.

Hart played both rounds in a snarl, a beautiful thirty-fowler on the last green just as a warning note to the field that he is out to defend the title he won for the first time last year at Oak Bay links at the nineteenth hole from Jack Ballinger, Seattle.

Thatcher appeared headed for the medal honors as he romped over the outgoing stretch in 38, three over par, but he required 42 heading for the clubhouse, while Dr. Wright, the southpaw threat from Oregon, who plays real good golf despite his age, duplicated Hart's card with two 40's for the distance. He had a great chance to break into the seventy division but his long thirty-foot putt on the eighteenth hung on the lip of the cup Ballinger, last year's runner-up, qualified easily, scoring a 41 on the first nine and a 43 coming home, despite sixes on the last two holes.

Three other Victorians were grouped with Paul Murphy, Portland, in the 83 class. They were Tom McPherson, Captain George Wilder and A. T. Goward. Four members of the invading American brigade turned in cards of 84, including W. B. Burns, Tacoma. P. W. Blanchard, Portland, Jack Ballinger, Seattle, and P. N. Hicks, also from the Sound city. E. L. Mann, Wenatchee's lone entry, and Joshua Green, Seattle, a former title holder, 85's, and three others, T. H. Leeming, Victoria; G. H. Raleigh, Tacoma, and J. J. Dempsey, Tacoma, were well up with 86's.

OLD COUNTRY SQUAD NAMED
Sixteen Cricketers Selected For Tour of Australia During Coming Winter

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Sixteen cricketers, four amateurs and twelve professionals, have been chosen to represent England against Australia in the Commonwealth during the coming winter. The team will be completed shortly by the addition of a second wicketkeeper.

E. R. T. Holmes, Surrey, and Kenneth Barnes, Essex, amateurs, and three pros—C. J. Barnett, Gloucestershire; James Sims, Middlesex, and William Voce, Nottinghamshire, were selected during the week-end.

Other players who will go "Down Under" are G. O. Allen, captain of the team, and R. W. V. Robins, both Middlesex amateurs, and Wally Hammond, Gloucestershire; Joseph Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire; L. B. Fisklock, Surrey; Maurice Leyland, Bedford Verity, Yorkshire; George Duckworth, Lancashire; T. Worthington, W. H. Copson, Derbyshire, and A. E. Fagg, Kent.

The team indicates judicious blending of players with international experience with several younger players who have shown up well in first-class cricket this season. Holmes, Robins, Hammond, Leyland, Verity and Duckworth, the wicketkeeper, have all proved their worth in previous test matches, and their experience should prove invaluable in the crucial battles with Australia.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES
By ALEX MORRISON

Recently I played in a foursome with Mrs. C. F. Chabacker, Mrs. P. S. Dickinson and Joe Bradley over the beautiful Arcola course in New Jersey.

The women play over this course daily and Joe Bradley, the club pro, in order to make it easier for the girls we played from the front of the regular tee.

In many cases Bradley's ball and mine found the edge of the rough. We sent the ball beyond the open space prepared for regular drives.

This made quite a difference in the scores. In some cases we were driving from a point at least twenty yards ahead of the regular markers on the tee.

This yardage, though small, makes a tremendous difference on the other end of the shot. From the front tee you have a comparatively easy time reaching the green in par figures, whereas it may be somewhat of a struggle from the back tee.

Keep this in mind when you are trying to plan your play for any kind of a course.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON
The Original Judge Lynch—Judge Charles Lynch (1736-1796), after whom the term Lynch Law has been formed, was a planter, soldier and justice of the peace near the present site of Lynchburg, Va.

During the Revolution, while the judiciary of the county was disrupted, Lynch organized an extra-legal court in which he presided for the purpose of dealing with Tories and lawlessness of every kind. The conviction in this court was summary and the execution of whipping sentences was prompt. Although he was the original "Judge Lynch," he never sentenced anyone to death. His favorite punishment was to hang the offender by his thumbs until he cried "Liberty Forever" when he was released. Judge Lynch was a public-spirited man and a broadminded patriot, and it is strange that his name should now be associated with mob rule and lawlessness.

Futures Slump Three Cents At Winnipeg—Aggressive Support Lacking

WINNIPEG, Aug. 10 (AP).—Wheat futures fell 3/4 to 2 1/2 cents on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Lack of aggressive support was the chief factor in the decline.

October closed at 101 1/4, December 99 1/4 to 99 1/2 and May 102 1/2 cents. It was the first time after eight consecutive sessions that all three positions did not show above the bar mark.

In cash wheat, United States imports demanded durums, but supplies were scarce. Put trading in coarse grains was interesting.

THE TUTTS ... By Crawford Young

CAT HERDS CHICKENS rences Thornburgh. She drives SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (P) A white away prying dogs and holds a de- cat guards and herds a flock of chicken over a goat that wandered too sixty-five chickens owned by Law-near her flock.

Jane Dixon Says:

IF A MAN CAN'T DECIDE WHICH OF TWO WOMEN HE LOVES, THEN HE LOVES NEITHER.

Dear Miss Dixon: I'm nineteen and have known and gone with boys or men of all ages, sizes and descriptions. Some of them have meant a lot to me, others very little.

For the past six months I've known a man of twenty-one. We've had loads of fun together, have a great deal in common—a love of music and of study.

He is the first person who has meant more than all else to me. I think I've found the real thing but—there is always a "but"—the sister of my best friend went with him before I knew him. He doesn't mean a thing to her, but she has and always will make a hobby of taking men away from other girls and then leaving the men flat. She's an attractive blonde from a very wealthy family. She's always had everything she wanted in life. My family has gone through the depression like many others, but I've managed to keep my friends.

When I first started going with Jack, Louise never gave us a thought. Then, when she thought we cared, she did her all to break us up. He is spending the next winter abroad, and I realize that when he comes back he will have changed, and so shall I.

SHE'S IN A DILEMMA

I feel that at my age I should know the depth of my own feelings. Jack says that if it is possible, he is loving two girls at once. In my opinion this is impossible, and I refuse to accept such love.

My mind and heart are divided—should I sit back and let Jack go, or should I fight for him?

I'm considered attractive, and have no trouble in getting dates. Jack says he knows I'm the more desirable girl of the two, but he can't seem to help himself. I've thought many times of writing to Louise and her sister, but don't want to give them the satisfaction of knowing how I feel. Please answer at once. I need help so much. Desperate.

Answer: Sorry, Desperate, but letters must be answered in order of their reception. There are a lot of "Desperate" and "Unhappy" and "Bewildered" and "Heartbroken" in the world bounde yourself, each feeling that his or her need is the most pressing. In fairness to all, we take them as they come.

TRUE LOVE CAN'T BE DIVIDED

About your Jack—I'm sure he must feel like quite the Lotario with two girls fencing for his affection, and one of them at least so intent on a win that he dares confess to her the divided state of his heart. How his ego must soar.

Maybe your best friend's blonde sister does make a hobby of trapping men, but she could not take your Jack or any other man unless he was willing to be taken.

What kind of a fight do you propose making for what you believe to be the "real thing"? Appeal to Louise would only flatter her silly vanity and inspire her to fresh degradation. Pursuit of Jack would cause him to run faster in the other direction. Very few men can tolerate being pursued by women. They resent having their prerogatives taken away from them.

When Jack admits he knows you are the more desirable of his two girl prospects, but that he "just can't help himself," he says in fact that he can't help desiring the other girl.

I think I do not need to tell you that true love never was never is and never can be divided.

CAMPAIGN OF INDIFFERENCE

Were I you, I should set to work to force all thought of "hiding" him or "fighting" for him out of my mind. If he can't decide which of you he loves, then he loves neither of you. Why hold to a make-believe, and why fight for a phoney?

Inaugurate a campaign of indifference.

Be friendly, but never eager.

When he tells you he's traveling a two-way Love Lane laugh at him. Make it your business to observe other young men of your acquaintance. Look for interesting qualities in them. Likeable traits.

You'll be surprised how their stature will grow in your eyes.

It may be that when Louise finds you've signed off on competition she'll be up to her old tricks and leave the young man flat. Then it will be your turn to shrug shoulders.

A year is a long time in the life of one as unstable as Jack, so you had better keep your heart until his return—he does return.

Equilum Council Considers Pleading Case at Canadian Municipalities Meeting

Tax-free Federal Government land in Equilum may become the subject of a resolution introduced by the Equilum municipal council at the Union of Canadian Municipalities convention being held in Vancouver, August 18, 19 and 20.

Reeve Alex Lockie was last night authorized by the council to ascertain from Alderman J. J. McRae, of Vancouver, president of the Dominion association, whether notice of such a resolution could be introduced at this date and whether it would receive support. Reeve Lockie may represent Equilum at the convention.

The council has long been concerned with the matter of large properties being exempt from taxation. Councillor Head suggested that, if the question was put to a test case, the municipality would at least win in regard to the Equilum dydock, which, although on Dominion Government property, was used as a commercial port.

MIDNIGHT AND PERCY JONES by VINCENT STARRETT

CHAPTER XXIX

As Riley Blackwood walked away from his guests with "Happy" Chance, manager of the club and chief of its gorilla personnel, a troubled silence fell upon the table, broken almost instantly by Pentress. He stood up smiling.

"I'm not sure that I entirely like that summons," said the lawyer in his pleasant voice. "I'll just trail along behind—for company."

"I was thinking something of the sort, myself," said Colbath, rising also. "Just hold the fort, you folks, till we get back."

He slipped an arm through that of Pentress and urged him forward in the direction taken by the disappearing Blackwood.

"Dallas, too, was on his feet. 'What the devil is the meaning of this?' he growled intelligently. He glared at Constantine, the only male remaining seated.

The novelist smiled and shrugged. "I imagine Riley knows his business," he answered. "Of course, if you want to make an expedition of it—"

He half rose from his chair.

"Sit there till I get back!" snarled

Dallas, in a sudden rage. He hastened away after the three who had preceded him.

Riley Blackwood, piloted by the pudgy manager, was just pointing through the rear door into the noise and clutter of the wings. The dancing girls, waiting their turn upon the floor, were swaying in the corridor. Beyond them, the door that led to the dressing room of Valerie West was closed.

Blackwood had no illusions about the incident. It was a murder assassination. If Dallas did not follow quickly there might be savage headlines in The Morning Chronicle.

It was possible that he had been too reckless. "Well, go right in," said "Happy" Chance. He flung open the door and stood back for his companion to enter.

An odd sound trembled on Blackwood's lips—a cry of incredulity and a sense of whirling confusion. His eyes seemed blurred against the gaudy toilet table. The room was filled with the acrid odor of powder and a sense of whirling confusion.

Clinging dizzily to the object that had obstructed his fall, Blackwood realized that he was looking into a mirror. There was a sharp pain in his side, he knew that he was wounded. And slowly he was slipping to the floor.

His vision cleared and for an instant—before darkness overtook him—he saw reflected in the glass the glittering eyes of Rolfe Colbath, and saw that there was a smoking pistol in his hand.

Dallas had not arrived.

"Fundamentally," said the great detective, recharging his pipe with bag, "the human race is bad. Nobody is born 'good'—we are all of us potentially criminal at birth. The survival of the race depends upon the inhibitions set up in us by education."

He merged slowly with the smoke that curled upward from his pipe, became a sardonic question mark of vapor, and vanished in a crackle of sudden laughter.

"That is a thought that has been frying in my skillet for some time," said Riley Blackwood. "But don't you think, my dear Rasseendyl, wherever you have come—?"

He opened his eyes and looked around him. This was curious. He was in bed!

He stirred and endeavored to sit up, but a searing pain shot suddenly across his side and he yelped and fell back upon the pillow. Somebody rushed forward and seized his hand.

"Good heavens, Riley!" said the voice of Zeldia Lansing. "You're not trying to get up?"

His wandering wits returned and, with a little shock, he remembered where he was. He was in the hospital, of course. He had been badly wounded—hadn't he?

"Oh—hello, Zeldia," he remarked. "I was dreaming, I guess. How am I, anyway?"

"You're doing splendidly," she told him. "If you'll only lie quiet and give yourself time to heal, you'll be out of here in no time."

The man who had been seated in a corner of the room came forward and stood beside the bed.

"Hello, Colbath," said Riley Blackwood, grinning. "This is reversing things with a vengeance! The same room, isn't it?"

The detective smiled. "I had it yesterday," he admitted. "But knockout drops don't do nearly as much damage as a bullet."

"It seems longer ago than that," said Blackwood, musing. His eyes narrowed to a frown. "Look here—they got Pentress, didn't they? I'm still a little hazy about last night."

The detective nodded. "I got him," he answered briefly. "He's dead as Dillinger. It was Pentress that shot you—and I shot Pentress. Just a second too late, I'm sorry to say."

"Oh, that's all right," said Blackwood. "And Valerie West?"

"Confessed," said the Federal detective laconically. "After Dallas made her look at Percy Jones, she told us where he was buried. How do you feel, old man?" he asked. "The doctor said you were all right; so we can talk a little, if you want to. I knew you had a lot of questions to ask. Zeldia's been here since 8 o'clock," he added irrelevantly.

Blackwood smiled. "Good old redhead," he commented, and fired another question: "What happened to the Hindu? I tell you, I was never so surprised in my life!"

"Locked up," said Colbath; he laughed. "Singh's the scariest Hindu in Chicago at this minute. Valerie's confession clears him, though; they'll have to let him go. He swears he knows nothing about last night—or Saturday night, either—and she bears him out. Pentress paid him a hundred dollars to dress in the dressing-room and confuse the issue. He thought he was to tell somebody's fortune. It's a wonder he wasn't shot, too."

Blackwood was interested. "I don't get you," he said.

It was a sweet, little plan, as I understand it, Pentress, of your telegram of invitation to the party at the night club, and, naturally, smiled a rat. He knew practically everything you did, and he realized that you were on the last lap. He called his lady friend Valerie and warned her. There was only one chance, he said, Blackwood knew everything, but Pentress was making a fool of himself by calling a party. If said Blackwood could be removed in haste, they were safe. Nobody else knew anything about them. So he dug up the Hindu. According to the plan, Valerie was to shoot you—she was hidden there in the room—and Pentress, coming in behind you, was to shoot the Hindu. It would look as though you had shot each other in the final showdown. No fingerprints, of course; they had it all worked out. The girl was to have said that Singh had forced his way into her dressing-room and kept her quiet till your arrival. Very neat! I'm afraid it all went wrong when I suspected Pentress and followed him. We arrested him in her dressing-room, and he was getting ready in her corner to pop you. All clear?"

"I guess so," Blackwood was dubious. "It's clear enough that you saved my life."

"Well—I chuckled you out of the way rather violently, when I caught sight of the young lady's weapon. Her shot went into the wall. Pentress took a pot shot at you while you were stumbling into a fall, and I shoved Pentress and took a shot at him. It lasted only a minute. The girl tried to shoot me, and I had to knock her out. First time I ever hit a woman really hard," said Colbath reflectively. "There's a lot of them I've wanted to hit."

Riley Blackwood smiled. "I wish you'd take a good look at Dallas for me, Colbath," he said. "If it hadn't been for you—"

"Oh, Dallas did his best. He was just a little slow that's all. He came up late, and round the door closed. Chance and some of the other thugs jostled him around a bit, and when he finally plunged in, the fireworks were all over. But he was busy enough after that. We got the whole gang with the help of some of his men who were planted around the place. I told you I wanted them, you know. But what you don't know is that Pentress was one of them."

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

SLEEP SHOULD BE A HABIT

Physicians who treat many cases of insomnia (sleeplessness) tell us that some of the things that keep the patient awake are (a) thinking of the foolish or unwise things they have been doing or have done, (b) fearing the near or far away future, (c) fearing that this sleeplessness has become a habit, and that it may soon cause physical ill health and perhaps mental ill health.

The method of treatment is (a) showing these patients that time spent in worrying over or regretting past mistakes is costing valuable time and energy that should be spent in rest of body and calmness of mind; (b) that fearing the future develops cowardice or an inferiority complex and makes facing the future actually harder than ever, and (c) showing patients that while eight or ten hours sleep may be necessary for some people, and at certain times for everybody, nevertheless, two hours sleep and six hours rest of mind and body (even if not asleep) will preserve life and prevent any mental ill health.

I believe this third part of the treatment showing that we can live with less sleep than we think we need is one of the biggest factors in bringing about sleep.

The patient is shown that during sleep the heart beats more slowly, the blood pressure is less, that the temperature is lower, and the lungs breathe less often, and that it is this slowing up of all these processes—less work being done by the body—that gives him refreshment in the morning.

Then he is shown that if he can keep his mind at rest, no worry about not sleeping or other things, and his body completely relaxed, arms and legs slightly bent, as he breathes slowly and deeply, this is 80 per cent as good as sleep in giving refreshment. Then it is not hard for him to see that with this relaxation and two or three hours of sleep besides, he is doing just as badly as good as sleep in giving refreshment. Then it is not hard for him to see that with this relaxation and two or three hours of sleep besides, he is doing just as badly as good as sleep in giving refreshment. Then it is not hard for him to see that with this relaxation and two or three hours of sleep besides, he is doing just as badly as good as sleep in giving refreshment.

If August 11 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 8:25 to 10:25 a.m. from 1:25 to 3:25 p.m. and from 6:25 to 8:25 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:25 to 8:25 a.m. from 11:25 a.m. to 1:25 p.m. and from 4:25 to 6:25 p.m.

Your creative power ought to be active on this day, for conditions are most favorable for anything requiring the use of the imagination. Writers, composers, artists and poets may find this an exceptionally good day for their line of work. There is danger of innocently made comments being misunderstood. Be careful you do not fancy something said in your hearing, as an intended slur or affront. Impatience in adjusting monetary difference will be poor judgment, likely to produce no desired results. Entertaining can become an extremely expensive luxury, unless you use caution regarding the form you select. Married and engaged couples, as well as those entertaining matrimonial hopes, can avoid some discordant condition only by making no unreasonable demand or request this day.

If a woman and August 11 is your birthday you are perhaps unusually well-informed, particularly regarding literature, or possibly domestic science. You may be either too serious or not sufficiently so. Be alert that you do not get into the habit of agreeing too readily, with whatever is said by a person of whom you are very fond. Do not be overly diffident, if you would avoid being imposed upon. A lover of dumb animals, you are apt to have a wonderful knack of winning their friendship. As a pet shop or specialty shop manager, interior decorator, actress, author or artist you are likely to find marvelous opportunities to attract favorable attention. Your matrimonial life ought to prove thoroughly satisfactory.

The child born on August 11 is apt, when it reaches school age, to have a magnetic personality which will win it many worth-while friends, and assure its popularity. The right environment is essential for this youngster's proper development. If a man and August 11 is your natal day you probably are pleasure loving, but industrious, affectionate, but a believer in discipline, generous, but also thrifty, and have all the requirements needed for a man to be a great success. Botany, mining, engineering, architecture, art and writing are among the most likely lines through which you may progress gratifyingly.

AGGRAVATING

Tolson had been out seeking work and on his arrival home found his wife in tears. "Cheer up, old girl," he said, "the tide has turned. I've got a job as a night watchman." "Well," said the aggrieved wife, "that ain't aggravating just when I've just finished makin' ye a couple o' new nightshirts."
